RAF TODAY TOOK OFFENSIVE IN SERIES OF BOMBING RAIDS

Attack the Main Bases of German Military Machine on Continental Europe

TAKE OFF FOR CALAIS

Coastal Waters in Dover Area Saw Large Numbers of British Bombers

(By International News Service)
LONDON, Feb. 5.—The RAF took the offensive today in a series of shattering bombing raids on the main bases of the German military machine on Continental Europe.

Coincident with announcement of devastating attacks throughout the night on Dusseldorf, Brest, Ostend, Dunkirk, Bordeaux, Cannes and other vital points where the Nazi army and air force are poised for invasion, a huge force of British bombers took off this afternoon for Calais.

Coastal waters in the Dover area saw large numbers of Britain's bombers escorted by fighters thunder across the Straits, only 22 miles away. The planes flew at an altitude of only 5,000 feet in comparatively clear weather.

Above, below and in front of the bombers, close formations of Spitfires wheeled and dipped, frequently zooming to the French coast at 300 miles an hour and then returning to the convoy to safeguard against interception.

Meanwhile, German raiders were reported over Northeast England, the Midlands and East Anglia, but apparently in considerably fewer numbers than the squadrons which got away.

Fire Destroys Film At Croydon; Shows Cancelled

CROYDON, Feb. 5.—Fire which destroyed the film being shown at the Ritz Theatre, here, last evening, prevented the large audience attending the first performance from seeing the finale; and caused the second show of the evening to be cancelled.

Damage done, according to members of Croydon Fire Company who were summoned, included destruction of the film, and damage to wiring about the projector.

The flames were extinguished, it was stated, by use of sand placed in the projection room for that purpose. It is said that the manager of the theatre and the operator were aided by George Smith a member of Croydon Fire Company and of Philadelphia Fire Department, who happened to be in the audience. The flames were extinguished before firemen arrived.

Everything was orderly as far as theatre patrons were concerned, it is said, a few leaving the building, and some remaining in the theatre to see if the performance would continue.

GREENBERG STARTS PRISON ROUTINE

Buckingham Resident Was Tried First Back In 1939

ON CHARGES OF ARSON

DOYLESTOWN, Feb. 5.—Adam Greenberg, Doylestown, R. D., settled down to prison routine today after making a bitter fight to keep from going to jail. Greenberg was sentenced September 11, 1940, to serve not less than six months nor more than two years. The Greenberg arson trials in the Bucks County courts attracted state wide attention.

Because his case was appealed to the Superior Court of Pennsylvania, he was out on bail and also a patient in the University of Pennsylvania Hospital in Philadelphia, where he was quite ill.

The State Superior Court last week rejected Greenberg's plea for a new trial.

He was tried first in 1939, when he was convicted in all four counts. He was tried again in February, 1940, when he was acquitted on the two more serious counts and convicted on two lesser counts in connection with the destruction of a Lackawanna Trail road house, the Black Cat, near Plumsteadville, on October 6, 1938, in the early morning.

Greenberg, who is 57 years old and appeared at the County Prison yesterday morning on crutches, was also sentenced by Judge Calvin S. Boyer to pay a fine of $300 in addition to the prison sentence.

He was on bail about four months, having been in the hospital suffering with arthritis and other ailments.

A well-known Buckingham township resident, his trial was one of the most bitterly fought with a trio of counsel on his side and District Attorney Edward G. Biester and Assistant District Attorney Willard S. Curtin serving for the Commonwealth. Numerous Bucks county volunteer firemen's testimony proved most damaging.

Tells of Chemist's Place In Electrical Industry

The program presentation at the weekly meeting of Bensalem Rotary Club, last evening, was by John Hamor, first vice-president of the club, and an employee of the Philadelphia Electric Company.

"The Place of the Chemist in the Electrical Industry" was the subject of Mr. Hamor, who told the Rotarians of the nature of the water required in the electrical industry, and how water is prepared for such use, so it will not damage tubes, etc.

Mr. Hamor gave a demonstration, which showed various types of sand through which water is run, to eliminate undesirable elements.

The meeting took place at the Green Light Restaurant, Lincoln Highway, where sessions start each Tuesday evening at 6:25 o'clock. The Rev. Arthur F. Gibson, Eddington, presided.

There were only two absentees at this dinner session.

Next Tuesday evening, Dr. J. Fred Wagner, a member of Bristol Rotary Club, will be the speaker.

Ford Charges Industry Created Labor Unions

By James L. Kilgallen

Ways, Ga., Feb. 5.—Henry Ford declared in an interview today that industry created labor unions, and that industry did it "for one purpose only"—to put the Ford Motor Company out of business.

"The whole thing is to get the Ford Motor Company out of the picture because of our competition and the high wages we pay," he said. Unions, according to Ford, were "born in iniquity and will go the same way."

"I positively know," Ford asserted, "that a big industrial combination—a clique that owns large industries other than the Ford Company—are behind unions. Their one purpose is to get control, raise prices and cut wages."

"You can't cut wages and raise prices and have good times in America. Nothing will spoil the country quicker than such a policy."

"I thoroughly believe in paying wages in proportion to the profits. It is the profits that build up and perpetuate an institution. There is no necessity of building up an institution unless you pay good wages because unless you do pay good wages you will not have a market."

To Reorganize Vichy Gov't

Vichy, France, Feb. 5.—As a result of German pressure, speedy reorganization of the Vichy Government to include Pierre Laval was predicted today by authorized French circles.

These well-informed circles said that Premier Petain probably will be forced to establish, under his own leadership, a supervisory quadrivirate which will include General Huntzinger, Paul Badoin, Laval and Admiral Darlan.

Petaim called a special meeting of the council of ministers under his presidency for late this afternoon. Details of the planned cabinet reshuffle were revealed as Admiral Darlan planned to return to Paris after presenting German demands for reorganization of the Vichy regime.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT
"Distributed by McNaught Syndicate, Inc."

The Question of Taxes

Washington, Feb. 4. IT is an interesting fact that in this country, in matters of public policy, very often the people are more enlightened than the politicians. Not infrequently the latter misconceive altogether the feeling of the former and, under the false assumption of unfavorable public reaction, refrain from advocacy of what they know to be the right thing.

EXACTLY that has happened before during this Roosevelt regime, and there are good reasons for believing it is about to happen again in the matter of taxation. In brief, the willingness of the people to be taxed makes the reluctance of the politicians to tax them seem absurd. It also argues that the popular understanding of the financial obligations of the defense program is clearer than the political understanding. For example, most competent observers agree that the people as a whole realize that no such defense program as ours can possibly be carried out without "drastic and restrictive" taxes.

MOREOVER, they are willing to pay that kind of taxes in order to avoid the dangers involved in unrestrained and unlimited borrowing. Yet the Administration policy, as expressed by the President, is distinctly against "drastic and restrictive taxes." He has stated that so clearly that it has become the Treasury slogan—despite the fact that both small and big business are prepared for just those kinds of taxes, look upon their acceptance as the sacrifice which must be made, are unable to see how the thing can be swung without them.

TRIO OF BANDITS SENTENCED IN THE BUCKS CO. COURTS

Staged Hold-Up at Robbins' Drug Store, Croydon, On January 18th

WALP PLEADS GUILTY

West Bristol Man Given One To Five Years On The Charge of Arson

DOYLESTOWN, Feb. 5.—Sentence was imposed in Bucks County court yesterday on three of the four Philadelphia men who are said to have participated in a hold-up at Robbins' Drug Store, Croydon, on the night of January 18th. The sentences imposed by Judge Calvin S. Boyer will start at the conclusion of the sentences given in Philadelphia last week, when the three were arranged on a charge of theft of automobiles. The car used in the Bucks County hold-up subsequently crashed at Andalusia, the quartet rushing away from the scene.

The three bandits, together with a fourth, a lad of 15 years whose case is in charge of Philadelphia juvenile court, secured $120 from cash registers at the Croydon store, after holding James Mee, a clerk, at bay with a gun.

The sentences imposed by Judge Boyer yesterday are as follows:

Howard Shelton, 21, of 249 E. Tioga street, sentenced to pay costs of the case and fine of $1, also nine to 20 years in the Eastern Penitentiary, term to begin at expiration of five to 10 years sentence imposed in Philadelphia last week. Shelton, it is claimed, was the bandit who was armed.

Oscar Orth, 28, of 2139 E. Susquehanna avenue, fine of $1 and costs, and eight to 20 years in the Eastern Penitentiary, term to begin at expiration of 2½ to 5 year term imposed in Philadelphia.

Thomas Jendell, 22, of 2439 Abigail street, fine of $1 and costs, and five to 10 years in Eastern Penitentiary at conclusion of 2½ to 5 years imposed in Philadelphia courts.

The trio was tried last week on the auto theft charge in Philadelphia; and yesterday pleaded guilty to the charges of robbery and being armed with an offensive weapon.

Judge Boyer in stern terms informed the three that he is intent upon breaking up the practice of Philadelphians coming into Bucks County to commit crimes. He refused the request that the terms imposed in the two courts run concurrently.

After the four were taken in custody detainers were lodged against them by Pennsylvania Motor Police of Oxford Valley barracks. William Boyd, the 15-year-old Philadelphia youth involved in the affair, was held at the house of detention, Philadelphia, for a hearing later.

A West Bristol man, Robert Walp, 29, pleaded guilty yesterday before Judge Boyer to a charge of arson. He was sentenced to pay the costs in the case, and to serve from one to five years in the county prison. The case was prosecuted by assistant district attorney, Willard Curtin.

Walp was taken in custody by Bristol police on January 18th, following discovery of a fire at the rear of Barnard's music store, Bristol. Waste was found stuffed under a tin roof over a stairway. Later police took Walp into custody, after they were informed that he was acting in a strange manner in the tall grass at the rear of the Grand Theatre. Walp's hands, it was stated, were smeared with grease, when he was taken into custody. An attempt had been made the night previous to set fire to a truck owned by Louis Dries, Bristol; and later firemen discovered that two journal boxes on a freight car in a coal yard in Bristol had been stripped of waste packing.

Rose Bachman, 45, 158 Mount Carmel ave., Glenside, charged with uttering a forgery, pleaded guilty before President Judge Hiram H. Keller yesterday.

Theodore T. Widmer, Langhorne, testified that one day the assessor came to him and told him that his place was sold to Theodore Bachman and his wife.

"Theodore Bachman is my step-brother's son," said Mr. Widmer. "The defendant is the wife of my step-brother."

"I wanted to sell my house," said Mr. Widmer. "When I asked Mrs. Bachman about it she said there must have been some mistake in the Court House."

INCOME TAX CHANGES

The Ides of March this year are liable to produce more confusion and anguish than usual, which is saying a lot, unless taxpayers acquaint themselves with the significance of changes authorized by Congress last year in the Federal income tax law.

To begin with, the base has been enlarged so that the tax now bears on lower income groups than at any time in its 27-year history. Previously a single person or a married person not living with husband or wife was required to file an income tax return only if his gross income amounted to $1,000 or more. This year persons in this class must file a return if the gross income amounts to $800 or more.

For example, if a bachelor earns a gross income of $900 and can properly deduct $101 for, say, charitable contributions, he must still file an income tax return even though he will not be obliged to pay a tax on his net income of $799.

Likewise, married persons living together used to be exempt from filing a return if their net income was below $2,500. This year they must file a return if their gross income is $2,000 or over.

Because many persons who have not hitherto paid a Federal income tax will pay one this year, and many people who do not pay a tax will have to file a return according to law, the work of the Bureau of Internal Revenue will be nearly doubled. Last year 9,000,000 returns were filed. This year the Bureau expects 15,000,000.

Although the Bureau has greatly increased its staff, providing deputies for helping taxpayers with their returns, the worst sort of congestion will ensue if people leave the task until the last week or so. Many who have never filed an income tax blank may need assistance and advice, but a staff adviser can handle only a certain number of cases in a given time, and there is real danger that many persons will not get their returns filed in time to meet the deadline of midnight, Saturday, March 15th.

In addition, a defense tax must be paid this year in connection with the income tax. After the normal tax of 4 per cent on the amount of net income, arrived at by deducting legal exemptions and credits from gross income, has been computed, along with a surtax on net incomes in excess of $4,000 (if any), a defense tax of 10 per cent is imposed on the combined normal tax and surtax. Stated briefly, a man who pays an income tax of $10 will have to pay another dollar as a defense tax, making $11 in all.

The Bureau of Internal Revenue offers the following advice: Start working on your income tax returns at once. Study carefully the instructions accompanying the forms before filling in the blanks. Save the data from which your return is compiled for possible rechecking and verification later. And be careful not to omit any information essential to a complete audit of your return.

If these simple rules are followed, there will be a minimum of annoyance and no extra expense, while the government's task of audit and collection will be simplified.

STRAIGHT SILHOUETTE IS ONE OF FASHIONS HIGHLIGHTS JUST NOW

By Miss Edna Stephany
(Home Economics Representative)
Spring fashions are in the picture and women everywhere are making note of the developments in style.

We must remember that the style scheme is changing, but slowly, and where the trend is gradual, the developments are logical.

Many new and some very smart variations of the straight and narrow silhouette are being shown for spring. Also there is much compromise with fullness in sections with straight sides for the narrow look.

The attempt to straighten out last year's hourglass is more noticeable in coats and suits than in dresses. The wide-shoulder and wide-skirt silhouette is an exception on coats and suits except in junior styles.

This spring's big emphasis on suits is the longer jacket. Slim skirts, whether pleated or gored, and smooth shoulders with less padding are strictly 1941.

In tweed coats, a bit of shirring takes away severity from the straight-cut. Inverted pleats are the most logical way to introduce ease into tailored garments. This applies to jackets, skirts, and coats.

To smooth down the hips and let in softness above the waist, we find fork tucks are prominent.

Many of these changes would not be possible if it were not for fabrics that drape beautifully, contributing their part to the straighter, slimmer line. The big point in fabrics is the thinner, flatter, and plainer weaves from casual coatings to navies and blacks.

The Pacific Division—California, Oregon and Washington—showed the largest percentage of increase of any of the regional divisions in the 1940 Census. The increase in these states was 18.8 per cent. The South Atlantic Division was second with 12.9 per cent. New England was the smallest with 3.3 per cent.

IT is a strange state of affairs. Here is the Government about to spend $23,000,000,000 in the coming fiscal year, more than half of which must be borrowed. With this enormous outpouring industry will be carried to the highest level of activity in our history. Wages, dividends and agricultural income will go up. In fact, according to the most authoritative economists, everything will go up except the income of those who depend upon bonds, trust funds and insurance policies. Couple this situation with the opposition of the President to new taxes that would "curtail consumption" and all the positive requisites for inflation are present.

—O—
THERE is no real argument about that. If the Government spends at the rate contemplated without at the same time imposing "drastic and restrictive taxes which curtail consumption," higher prices, and much higher prices, are bound to come; not, perhaps, within the next few months, but certainly in the end. And they will come with uncontrollable force. The Administration may fool itself and it may fool the public, as Mr. Ralph Robey recently pointed out, by holding the price of this or that commodity in check. But, in the end, these efforts will be futile. It is like, as Mr. Robey expresses it, pressing on an inflated rubber balloon: when you get one spot down the rest rises that much higher.

—O—
CLEARLY, with so vast a spending program, it is imperative to have "drastic and restrictive" taxes, and the time to impose them is at the beginning and not after inflation is out of control. In a recent poll of business executives Fortune Magazine found an overwhelming majority in favor of higher taxes, a large part of which will have to be paid by business. It also found an almost unanimous opinion that the Administration is afraid to let the great bulk of the voters become conscious of the tax cost of the defense program and consequently is trying to raise too much money through hidden taxes and taxes on the rich.

—O—
IT is this fear which keeps the President set against any form of Federal sales tax, though that is the simplest, safest and most effective way of raising money—the way, too, which would be adopted but for him. Back in 1931, when the Senate Democrats were ready to vote a sales tax, he killed it at a Hyde Park conference, professing himself "horried" at the suggestion. Today, though the need for revenue is immense, and though there is the best reason to believe that a sales tax would be acceptable to the people as a whole, still his position is unchanged.

—O—
APPARENTLY, he thinks it would impose hardship on the plain people and that they would revolt. The belief of most recognized authorities is the reverse of that. They are not only convinced that the American people can "take it" but that they would be glad to take it, once they understood the necessity. The Administration opposition to the sales tax, which is what the President means by "drastic and restrictive" taxes, would not be so appalling if he had some substitute—some other adequate plan for financing these vast expenditures.

—O—
BUT not the remotest sign of such has been given. The plan proposed by Mr. Marriner Eccles, which at least tended in the right direction, has been discarded and the thought of the fiscal officials seems wholly concentrated upon how to borrow the money, not how to pay it back. Some of the best industrial brains in the country have been brought to Washington to help on the production phase of the defense job. True, they are not given a free hand or a good machine, but they are here. It is different with the financial phase. One would think the situation called for the best financial brains in the country to aid Mr. Morgenthau in dealing with these vast new problems. But none such have been drafted. Mr. Morgenthau is handling them himself—without help. It scares one to think about it.

CHAPTER TWENTY-FIVE

By the time Meredith left Somerset House, he felt exhausted, but he had known that the Makyn Road Transport Company had been founded in 1926 by Percy Fletcher Makyn of Birmingham and that it had carried on well until four months ago when it had evidently found itself in low water. The name and good will of the firm had been bought in by a firm of solicitors on behalf of an unnamed buyer. The present proprietor, appeared to be one, John McIntyre.

ON THE SCREENS

GRAND THEATRE

Filled with Fieldian whimsicalities, Universal's "The Bank Dick" is spilling a big bag of tricks at the Grand Theatre.

For years the star, W. C. Fields, has been acclaimed one of the greatest comedians on the American stage or screen. The honor has never been disputed, but if any proof were needed, it is here in his latest picture.

More typically Fields' material than any of the star's more recent productions, Fields appears as a special guard in a bank, a role he has long wanted to play. Fields is starred solo—which means he has the bulk of the comedy business to carry.

The original screenplay, by Mahatma Kane Jeeves, is full of opportunities for the comedian to play his effective spontaneous, ad lib type of comedy acting, and director Eddie Cline has wisely allowed Fields to indulge himself and to make the most of the opportunities offered.

BRISTOL THEATRE

Exciting entertainment is promised patrons of the Bristol Theatre when "The Mark of Zorro," 20th Century-Fox film which stars Tyrone Power in the famous and colorful title role with lovely Linda Darnell featured opposite him, opens today.

The story of "The Mark of Zorro" revolves around the adventures of a masked night-riding bandit whose sword mark—a jagged "Z"—struck terror to every heart in Old California's most exciting days, but whose daring won him the loveliest senorita in the land. Action is the keynote of the exciting film.

RITZ THEATRE

Long Valley, California, where "Cherokee Strip" was made, the Paramount picture opening today at the Ritz Theatre, is one of the few last stands of the old west. The hundred odd Hollywood cowboys brought to the location found out that they were getting pretty soft when they went up against the real thing.

PAUL RUBY STANDS OUT

Cardinals Swept Favored Team
Off Its Feet To Win
The Game

By Jack Gill

Big Paul Ruby, a tall, well built likeable athlete who has shown worlds of potential promise as an inexperienced sophomore, led Bristol High School to a thrilling 40 to 33 triumph over West Conshohocken here last night in a rough ball game.

Hanging around this year's basketball team, Ruby was being used mainly as a reserve due to his lack of experience. The big blond boy is the same athlete who flashed spasmodic sparklings of brilliance at tackle on the gridiron this past fall, but all conference selectors passed him up because of his inexperience.

Ruby is still not a finished product in the athletic business, but last night he showed enough to warrant considerable attention. Barring unforeseen occurrences, Ruby might develop into one of Bristol High School's better athletes.

His six points last night was a high for the evening. But he took the ball on the rebound off the Conshohocken basket consistently and he fared well under his own hoop. What's more, Bristol kept working the ball down court and into Ruby's high outstretched arms often. He either pivoted in improved fashion to drop neat ringers in the mesh or sent salutes out to DiAngelo and other mates.

The sophomore even stole the ball a couple of times and intercepted West Conshohocken passes. Joe Accardi played a scrappy ball game on the floor and Benny Lupkin came through with a couple of long set shots. Prior to his game both boys had been rather silent in a scoring way. Then too, Chick Di Angelo grabbed himself 12 points, all garnered in the last half.

The invaders came here as kings of their division in the Suburban League. Although they broke rather fast and presented a smooth passing attack, they at no time equalled the showing of Trenton Catholic, still the best five to show here this winter.

Bristol came from a five point deficit in the third quarter to find the range on a couple of long set shots. Back in the ball game, they were paced by Di Angelo, who had nine points before it was over. They then went into a 33 to 25 advantage as the third quarter ended.

Both teams hit a peak in fast action in the final chukker and West Conshohocken turned loose Bill Ingram who dropped in a field goal and a foul to shoot the losers back in the game for only a moment. Bristol, playing their men close and trying to block shots, committed several fouls, four of which were converted. But in the final moments Monti came through with a couple of well timed shots to clinch the fray.

MORRISVILLE CLINCHES DIVISION HONORS

MORRISVILLE, Feb. 5—Winning its third straight conference game, the Morrisville High School clinched the championship of its division of the Lower Bucks County League, winning over the Falls Township High School, 35-20, last night on the former's floor. The Bulldogs won despite some wonderful shooting from the foul line by the lucky Frank Moon. Moon had six tries from the charity mark and on each occasion he looped the ball through the hoop for a point and in addition to this added a trio of double-deckers to make his total of points for the night, 12.

As usual it was the second half of the tilt which saw the boys of Jimmy Doheny go down to defeat. At the half-time gun, the Orange and Black were ahead, 14-12, and managed to hold on to this slight edge for a short period in the third session but suddenly Vince De Bronze and Company broke loose and when Timer McCue sounded his whistle ending the third session, the Bulldogs were out in front, 23-20.

Johnny Hoffman's proteges had no trouble in keeping this lead as they matched the ultimate losers point for point in the final quarter with Hulse and Bresley alternating in the point-grabbing. De Bronze had ten points for his night's work with Hulse having 8. The Falls boys proved much better shot from the foul mark, registering 10 out of 14 tries while the best Morrisville could do was 3 out of 13. Artie Driscoll added 7 points to his season's total points with three field goals and a foul.

In the Junior Varsity game, Morrisville Jay Vees outpointed the Fallsington Jay Vees, 17-11. It was the second victory that the boys of "Tike" Scott scored over the Falls youngsters. "Howie" Wilnot paved the way for the Morrisville victory with a pair of fielders and a gift point.

At traffic lights you simply step on the brake to stop. To start again, you release the brake and step on the gas!

Why not try this new driving thrill... in a more beautiful Chrysler... tailored to your taste? There's a smooth-as-oil Chrysler ready for you any time. Just 'phone or come in to see us.

"Three different fellows came to look at the place and on November 6 she said a mortgage company wanted to see my deed. I asked her for it time and time again to have it returned and finally she sent it out with a boarder," said Mr. Widmer. "When I learned that the property had been conveyed to Theodore and Claudia Bachman I said there must be some crooked work going on with my property being turned over to her son," said Widmer.

"Mrs. Widmer said she saw about it and there had been some mistake in the court," said Widmer. Daniel H. Krouse, Justice of the Peace in Middletown township, said a deed was taken to his office by a woman who said she would like to have it notarized. "It was acknowledged in my office and the defendant signed the name of Katherine Widmer. She explained her husband was too ill to come to my office," said Mr. Krouse. "I did not know that Mrs. Bachman was not Mrs. Widmer," said the witness. "I did not ask her whether that was her name; I assumed it was. The acknowledgement was taken November 24, 1940, which was on a Sunday, as I recollect."

"The same signature was signed twice in my office," Private John P. Mitchell, South Langhorne P. M. Policeman, who investigated the case, said he received a complaint Jan. 22 from Mr. Widmer. "Widmer loaned Mrs. Bachman the deed in good faith. He wanted to borrow $1500 and have a search made," said Private Mitchell.

Private Mitchell read a confession made by Mrs. Bachman, saying that she signed the three names on the deed which was taken to Doylestown to be recorded.

"I knew this was wrong to do," Mrs. Bachman confessed to the police at Oxford Valley sub-station. The confession was made January 24.

John Melton, 59, a Morrisville Negro, who pleaded guilty to drunken driving, was granted a parole. He was sentenced January 7, and was in prison since December 4, 1940, when he was arrested. His minimum sentence expired Feb. 4.
